THE ASPECIS OF THE KIGHT-ROUR LAW. OPINION OF THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Notwithstanding the boast of the Presidents of the Coopers' Unions that they would hold out, many of the men are already showing signs of impatience. Whatever funds the union may have, and however much assistance it may receive from ther labor organisations, the pecuniary aid which ', hey can give to the etrikers $6 per week to single 2.ad $6 to married men, with the additional 55 cents for each child—many, especially those who have far, ilies, are suffering from privaed a reporter that several of the minor oil refiners had requested that a committee of coopers be sent to them hight, and has a front of 39) feet, and a depth to make some arrangements for their men to return to work. They, the employers, had said that they had not had any grievance to complain of, and were willing to ment. Behind the house a laundrythus been constructed. had any grievance to complain of, and were willing to acted to the terms of the Union. The Union could not grant the request of these refiners, because when the Union men struck at the shops of the large manufacture. turers, these minor refluers supplied them with all the barrels they needed, and this was what caused a general strike. According was what caused a general strike. According to Mr. Bradley's statement about 530 coopers are on strike, and most of them received their weekly allowance last Saturday. The remainder of the men, nearly 1,000, are working. In reply to a question as to how long the Union could hold out. Mr. Bradley said: "If the strike were to continue much lenger we should be much better eff than we are now, for the cooper trade will soon become much brisker, and three-lourths of the strikers would find employment cles where. We would continue receiving pecuniary and from the other labor organizations in the same, and perhaps in a greater, proportion than at present." The strikers held a meeting on Saiurday afternoon, at which a committee was appointed to wait on the coopers emboyed at Greenpent and induce them to strike. A secret meeting was held yesterday afternoon to consuit about the best means in which to carry on the strike.

In which to carry on the strike.

The large oil reliners are firm in their defiance of the strikers, and they do not seem to suffer. They claim that they have all the hands they need, but are parting sallied worsimen higher wages than usual. Those sallied worsimen higher wages than usual. Those sallied worsimen higher wages than usual. Those coopers who have not had experience are learning fast may will soon become as competent as the others.

Other workingmen are quiet at present. G. Meyers, Treasurer of the Mechanics and Bailders' Exchange, said to a reporter that the laborers engaged in the building trade were quiet now only because times are duil, and they are glad to get work. If it were otherwise they would be sure to strike on some pretext. The Eight-hour law has a fundency to render the men idle. "I have watched my men," said Mr. Meyers, "and I find that they now do leas work in proportion to the time than when they worked ten hours a day. The men complain that we wrong them; but we, on the compain that we wrong them; but we, on the compain that we wrong them; but we, on the compain that we wrong them; but we, on the contract to fulfill which a certain time, the men are sure to strike at the most inconvenient moment and to extent from us terms more favorable to them. Nor is a exact. extort from us terms more favorable to them. Nor is a builder free to correct any of his workness when is a builder free to correct any of his workmen whenever the latter is doing his work badly. Nescouer is a Union man discussed for bad work, or even if corrected, than an the other Coron men strike.

ITALIAN CHEAP LABOR.

The Italian immigration, which has flowed in such heavy volume to this city within the last year or two, has brought with it a large element of cheap tabor with which only the Colnese movement bears comparison. The wretched mode of life of the Italian makes sussenance so cheap with him that contractors uptown ran ebtain the labor of young and robust men among them for $1.75 a day and even less. Inspector Thorne off the Street-cleaning Boreau of the Police Department, states that out of 700 men employed by him as street gaugs, sweeping and cleaning with hoe and broom. 150 fare Italians, while hundreds more apply for labor at the price named above, who cannot be employed. Men of other nationalities, Irish, German, and native barn, will not work for the same wages, except old and decrepit men. One obstacle alone prevents the more general employment of Italians by the Bureau. Few of them speak enough English to receive orders, and they consequently have to be placed In games by themselves headed by an interpreter. The laborers of other nationalities exhibit the same nationalist than the same nationalist than the same nationalist toward them that has until recently been manifested toward John Culmainan, and a lew Italians in a gang of Irish or German incorers would probably be assaulted and disabled. Even in gaugs of their own they have to be ready at a moment's notice to resist attacks from Seciety men. Some of the Italians steking labor at these prices on the public streets been to have been moderately well off in their own rounity, and Mr. Dixon, clerk in the Street-cleaning Bureau, states that he was applied to for work not long ago by a fellow of spiendid playsque, who had been a captain in the Italian army. A number of these men have lodgings near the Central Olice, and depend on occasional jows for support. If interpreters were to be found more easily, the Bureau would employ a large propertion of this cheap Italian labor; but very little progress is made by these lumigrants in the acquisition of the Euclish language, owing to their close companionship with one another, and slight mingling with other lationalities. As It is, however, a great many applicain gaugs by themselves headed by an interpreter. The bip with one another, and slight numeling with other nationalities. As it is, however, a great many applica-cations are made for Italian labor to the various bureaus by contractors who wish to employ cheap working a some for work in the city and more for employment on Western railroads.

A GENERAL ORDER CONFLICT. A new phase of the General Order system has come to light, the conflict being this time between the firm of Leet & Co., the Administration favorites, and Frank Squire, a warehouseman, Henry J. Meyer, an agent of the White Star line, and several of the leading revenue officials. Mr. Meyer says that the controversy originated after Mr. Stocking had left the firm of Leet & Stocking, which occupied the bonded warehouses Nos. 384 and 386 West Eleventh-st. Soon after this, Meyer went to Leet and made an agreement to take the warehouses from him on paying $29,000. They went to Judge Beebe's office to make the final arrangements, and there Mr. Meyer says Stocking appeared and joined in the discussion. Mr. Meyer said that he had nothing to do with him, as all his dealings were with Leet. The latter was then taken out of the office by Stocking, who said that he must answer a dispatch from Washington, and when he returned Leet reason to foulfil his agreement. Soon ager this Mr. Meyer went to the warehouses in question and found them in possession of Frank Squier, who told him that he had obtained them from Leet. Mr. Meyer says that his bonds for the buildings are good, but that he was mable by eat possession of them. When he applied to Collector Arthur for them he was referred to Special Denary-Collector Lydecker, who sent him back to the Collector, who referred him again to Mr. Lydecker, who then told him that they were in Washington and could not be obtained. R. J. Coris, the agent of the White Star line, is said by Mr. Meyer to be anxious that he should still receive the general order business or that company. Arnoid, Constable & Co., H. B. Ciafin & Co., S. B. Chittenden & Co., E. S. Jaffray & Co., and many others have joined in an appeal to the Collector, recommending that the general order business from the White Star line shall be kept in the hands of Henry J. THE HOME OF A VALUABLE CHARITY. As the Society for Befriending Children and Young Girls has increased in age and in knowledge of the extent of the evils which it was organized to ameliorate, it has broome apparent that by engaging a more spacious building for the Home its pawer for good would be largely increased. The result of this conclusion is seen in the opening on last Saturday of the new Home, at No. 136 Second-ave. Originally this building was owned by the Stuyvesant family. It was purchased by ing apartments of the older inmates, and the infirmary. At present the fifth story is not fitted up, but is used by the children as a play-room. Over the door of each of the principal rooms is inscribed the name of some saint. The building is well ventilated throughout and comfortably fitted up. Last year 250 girs and chiltren were received in the institution and 230 were discharged; of these 25 were taken by their families, 18-sent to other Institutions, and 184 provided with employment. Immates over 14 years are thought all kinds of household work. The Society received hat year $13,760. of which $1.00 the proceeds of mathete given by Mr. Bryant, $935 for matinee given by Sheridan Shook, $760 the proceeds of Mrs. Hecker's private theatricals, $607 the proceeds of work done, $1.00 donation from the city, $500 from the Irish Emigrant Society, and $250 from the Produce Exchange. NEW-JERSEY POLITICS.

SPECULATIONS CONCERNING THE FALL CAMPAIGN-CANDIDATES FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP AND U. S. SENATORSHIP-THEIR QUALIFICATIONS AND PROS PECTS.

PROMAN OCCASIONAL CONRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE. TRENTON, May 21 .- As yet there is nothing on the political horizon of New-Jersey by which to form an idea of the result of the Fall campaign, nor can there be until after both parties make their nominations for Governor. The election is looked forward to as a very important one. It is conceded that whichever party elects its Governor will also carry the Legislature which will choose a United States Senator to succeed Mr. John P. Stockton. The party leaders are carefully weighing the availability of gentlemen who wish to enter the gubernatorial race. Those gentlemen are numerous in both parties, and each section of the State has its aspirant. The Republicans of the western part have been prevailed upon to favor the claims of Mr. Eiward Battle, a chronic seeker for the nomination luring the past five years or more. His record in the Legislature, where he openly favored the worst schemes of the railroad monopolists, is against him. He was uniformly against the people, and his and the President of the Department of Parks, and the President of the Board of Aldermen, and provides that they shall have all powers and authority as to laying out, opening, widening, straightening, extending, altering, and closing streets of arguments. nomination for Governor would be hatled by the Demothe same party as probable candidates for Gover-nor. The man, however, whom the shrewdest observers say will be the Republican nominee for that office is ex-Congressman George A. Halsey of Essex, unless something occurs between new and the holding of the Convention to change the drift of Republican sentiment against him-a thing which is not at all likely. Mr. Halsey is engaged in the leather business in Newark, and is popular with the working classes. He is a busy political worker, and generally maintains a negative position. Last Winter Mr. Halsey was a frequent visitor to the Legislature, making friends and paving the way for his nomination. The friends of other Republican candidates say that Essex County is not entitled to the nomines, inasmuch as it had Mr. Walsh in 1872. But it seems that, in accordance with good policy, there is no alternative left them. Essex is the largest county, in population, in the State, and there is an uncertain and controlling political element there which requires constant coquetting with by some local party idel; while in the southern and western parts of the State there is seldom any marked change in party lines. is also believed by the Republican leaders that Hudson County would not go so largely Demo-eratic if a man from Essex were the Republican candie, on the ground that the counties are adjoining, and that there is, more or less, an identification of feeling and interest and general good-fellowship, regardless of politics. But there is one great drawback to Mr. Halsey's nomination for Governor, and that is his very limited education. That is something which Jerseymen are peculiarly sensitive about in a Governor, and it was his weakness in this direction that was the principal cause of Mr. John Blair's defeat for Governor a few years ago, The Democrats have an equally large number of can-didates. Mosmouth County puts forward Gen. Chas. Haight; Burlington, Gen. Mott; Morris, Senator A. W. Cutler; Essex, Nehemiah Perry, the present Mayor of Newark; and Hadson, Judge Jeseph D. Bedle and Sona tor John R. McPherson. The latter gentleman, however, declined, it is said, to be a candidate under any circumstances. Gen. George B. McClellan is mentioned is some quarters, but it is doubtful if he is seriously thought of. The general choice so far is Judge Bedle. He is very popular and much estoemed by both parties, and seems to be the man of all others whom the Administration leaders fear. It is still in doubt whether Judge Bedle will resign his position on the bench before the Democratic Convention is held. Jerseysays that his bonds for the buildings are good, but that he was anable to get possession of them. When he spided to Collector Arthur for them he was referred to Special Density-Collector Lydecker, who send his back to the Collector Lydecker, who referred him again to Mr. Lydecker, who then told him that they were in Washington and could not be obtained. R. J. Coris, the agent of the While Star line, is said by Mr. Meyer to be auxious that he should still receive the general order business of that company. Arnoid, Constable & Co., H. B. Claffin & Co., S. B. Chittenden & Co., E. S. Jaffray & Co., and many others have loined in an appeal to the Collector, recommending that the general order business from the Waite Star line shall be kept in the hands of Henry J. Meyer.
